MASTERS-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAM EXPANDED

The Masters-in-Residence program, begun last year with two Masters taking part, will be renewed this year with three doctural students serving as Masters. The Reverend John Bartholomew and Mr. Alexander Yule, who guided the program last year, will continue for 1967-68. Bartholomew will be resident in the Princeton Windsor Apartments, and Yule in North and South Halls with responsibility for the program in Tennent Hall. Joining them will be Th.D candidate K.C. Abraham, who will be Master-in-Residence in Alexander Hall with some responsibilities for Hodge and Brown.

The Masters-in-Residence program was developed to explore ways of fostering community life and devotional patterns within Seminary residence areas. The expanded program has been made possible by a renewed grant from the Fund for Theological Education. Students may call upon the masters to participate in discussions, assist in organizing devotional groups and programs, or to talk individually about the problems of spiritual formation on the Seminary campus.

Season Opens

The intramural season opened on Wednesday with Hodge, the Princeton Grads, and the Senior Grads coming through with victories.

The Senior Grads, behind the strong passing of Bob Timberlake, trounced Alexander 38-0. Paul Hammer opened the game's scoring when he scampered ten yards with an intercepted pass. In the second half, Timberlake riddled the Alexander pass defense throwing two touchdowns each to Bill Gray and Don Wagner.

In a hard fought and well contested game, Hodge won a narrow victory over a fired up Choir College team. Hodge drew first blood scoring on a 30 yard pass from Mike Shaw to Vince de Lalla. It looked as if that would be the only score of the game until the Choir College came back and scored with just six minutes left to play. The extra point was successful, and they took the lead 7-6. Their lead was short-lived, however, for with only three minutes remaining to play, Jim McCormick took another Mike Shaw pass and outlegged his nearest defender into the end zone for the game winning touchdown.

In another keenly contested game, the Princeton Grads topped the Junior Middlers by a score of 6-0. The winning and only touchdown was scored midway through the first half on a 60-yard scoring pass.

The Junior Middlers threatened to score in the second half when they marched to the Grads' four yard line, but an intercepted pass halted the drive and preserved the victory.

is totally unnecessary. McCarter Theatre is offering Seminary students the same discount rates given to Princeton University students.

A student coupon book of 10 coupons can be purchased for $7.50, enabling the student to buy tickets to his choice of performances at greatly reduced rates. The holder may also buy one guest ticket with each coupon at the same reduced rates.

In order to buy a coupon book, seminary students must first obtain a University store card as identification. The charge card, obtainable from the business office of the University book store, requires a $10 deposit which is refundable.

Among the plays to be performed this season are Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" and the "Merchant of Venice," Arthur Miller's "The Crucibles," and George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple."

Students are advised to purchase their tickets early in order to avoid the possibility of sellouts.

"The Devil" Opens at McCarter

"The Devil's Disciple" by George Bernard Shaw is life-expanding. The lively characters and the bustle of Shaw's thoughts keep an evening at McCarter Theatre brimming with laughter.

Characteristically, Shaw reverses the order of things. The scoundrel Richard Dudgeon, who has sworn his allegiance to the Devil, is a vigorous life-affirmer while his religious mother is an unbearable sourpuss. Salvation is depicted in negative terms and damnation as freedom.

The town minister Anthony Anderson appreciates Mr. Dudgeon's vitality and extends his hospitality. He tells his wife "Let's forgive him and then it won't matter that he's a scoundrel." She is horrified, but Dudgeon wins her affections and melodramatic complications ensue.

Taking place in New Hampshire in 1777, the play has a delightful scurry to it. The buffooneries of the British soldiers were exaggerated to excess, but the humor in sentimental Mrs. Anderson and in cranky Mrs. Dudgeon was superb.

The next performance of "The Devil's Disciple" is Friday, October 20. McCarter Theatre is located across from Brown Hall on University Place.

Intramural Football News

by Tom Crenshaw

The Senior Grads kept their record unblemished with a hard fought 13-6 victory over the Princeton Grads. After having several serious drives thwarted, the Senior Grads finally struck paydirt on a Timberlake to Hammer pass. Timberlake found Hammer in the end zone for the extra point and the score stood 7-0. Midway through the second period, however, the Princeton Grads came back, scoring on an intercepted pass which covered sixty yards. The Senior Grads were not to be denied, however, and once again Timberlake lofted a pass to Hammer who raced thirty-five yards for the final score. Hammer's reception was his fourth touchdown of the season and placed him on top in the League's scoring race.

The strong Junior Middlers defeated a much improved Choir College by the score of 15-0. The game was marked by some real ferocious line play with both teams displaying plenty of desire. The Junior Middlers scored mid-way through the first half when Price Davis hit Frank Drake on a pass which covered twenty yards. The extra point was good and the score stood 13-0. In the closing minutes of the game, Wayne Frey broke through the Choir College defense to down the quarterback in the end-zone for a two point safety.

In the closest contest of all, Brown took the measure of Hodge, 13-6. Brown scored first when versatile Bob McArthur hit end Dexter McNamara for six points. The extra point failed. Hodge tied up the score when Jim McCormick took a Mike Shaw pass and raced fifteen yards for the score. In the closing minutes of the game, and after having stopped a Hodge drive on their own two, Brown took possession of the ball and marched ninety-eight yards for the game deciding score. Again it was McArthur hitting McNamara for the all important score.

Drama

The Beatles, Shakespeare, or What You Will

Who would dare to use Beatle music as background for a Shakespeare play? McCarter Theatre would and did in their production of "Twelfth Night" (also called "What You Will").

A comedy about the complexities of love relationships, "Twelfth Night" livened its story with "Help!" and "You're Gonna Lose That Girl." The device worked because the McCarter actors create such real, lively characters that it does not seem strange to play Beatle music for them.

The play revolves around the problem of deception or partial knowledge. Viola, who falsely believes that her brother Sebastian has died in shipwreck, disguises herself as a man and seeks employment with the Duke Orsino. Orsino sends her on a mission to win the love of Olivia whom he loves. Viola has mixed emotions about the task because she herself has fallen in love with the Duke. "I'll do my best to woo your lady: yet a barful strife! Whoe'er I woo, myself would be his wife." The mesh becomes more entangled when Olivia falls in love with Viola.

Deception exists on all levels. Even Malvolio, Olivia's steward, is "sick with self-love" and therefore easily deceived into believing that his lady loves him. He carries on in grandiose fashion musing, "Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them." He magnificently disgusts the audience and Olivia who banishes him from her house.

The fool, a brittle old man, is the most perceptive character in the play. He recognizes that "there is no darkness but ignorance" and remarks about the complexities that evolve in the play, "Nothing that is so is so." The Beatles make their commentary also, in "I'm Looking Through You."

A truly enjoyable comedy, "Twelfth Night" is not without its moments of pain, and therefore richly represents life.

Brown Wins, Ties Sr. Grads For Top Spot

by Tom Crenshaw

By virtue of its 19-7 victory over the Choir College, Brown moved into a first place deadlock with the Senior Grads. In other games the Junior Middlers triumphed over Alexander 6-0, and Hodge, in what proved to be the most surprising game of the day, tied the Princeton Grads 6-6.

Brown, once again led by the passing and running of Bob McArthur, marched to its second victory of the season. Brown drew first blood in the opening half when McArthur threw fifteen yards to end Dexter McNamara who made a brilliant reception in the end zone. The extra point failed.

A determined Choir College team took the ensuing kick off and ran it sixty yards to the Brown fifteen. Two plays later Buckwalter hit Lackey in the corner of the end zone for the score. Lackey ran for the extra point and the Choir College led 7-6.

Brown came back, however, behind the rushing and passing of McArthur. After what looked like a touchdown pass from McArthur to Dave Newall had been called back on an offsides penalty, McArthur, facing a fourth and goal to go on the seven, rolled out to his right and scampered unmolested into the end zone for the score. The extra point was good making the score 13-7.

In the final minutes of play, McArthur hit Mark Rohloff with a fifteen yard aerial to put the game on ice.

In one of the most surprising games of the season, an undermanned Hodge team proved to be an equal match for the Princeton Grads. With two minutes to go in the game, and leading 6-0, it looked as if Hodge was going to pull the upset of the season. Victory slipped from their grasp, however, when in the last minute of play Grad School quarterback John Baker threw a fifteen yard scoring pass to Gary Philbin. The extra point was no good, thus salvaging a tie. It was a rather disappointing end for Hodge which lost their last game in the closing minutes when Brown marched eighty yards to score the deciding touchdown with just one minute to play.

Hodge's only score came on a pitchout from quarterback Mike Shaw to halfback Ted Ryan who then hit speedster Vince de Lalla in the end zone.

In a game marked by numerous interceptions by both sides, the Junior Middlers kept themselves in the thick of the league race by a narrow 6-0 victory over a winless but revitalized Alexander team. A stubborn Alexander defense led by senior Dave Myler kept the Junior Middlers in check throughout most of the game. Alexander's failure to mount any kind of offense, however, a problem which plagued them last year, forced them to play defensive football for the major portion of the game.

The Junior Middlers' only touchdown came when Frank Drake intercepted an Alexander pass and carried to the Alexander twenty-five. Four plays later quarterback Price Davies spotted and hit flanker-back Jim Long in the end zone for the game deciding touchdown.

DRAMA—

Enrico and Reality

by Marc E. Minardi

Enrico IV by Luigi Pirandello, currently playing at McCarter Theatre, is a thrilling combination of quality acting, tableau-like staging and skillful handling of a sometimes preachy script.

Pirandello is a master in the art of treating reality and illusion as if they were two sides of the same coin. In this play, set in a solitary Italian villa "in our time," we meet Henry, a seemingly confused but personable fellow who has been lost to the outside world ever since he fell from his horse in a carnival pageant 20 years earlier.

During this time he has been supplied by his relatives with a prop "throne room" and several hired "counselors" to act out his fantasy (he thinks he is Henry IV—the German penitent king), in the hope that some day he may wake up from his illusion.

On the report that Henry may be approaching sanity, several relatives and friends (among them a former lover) gather, and with the help of a psychiatrist, set about to free Henry from his tragic state. But their motives are not exactly pure, and Henry, perceiving more than they give him credit for, has some therapy of his own in mind.

Metaphysical and psychological questions abound—"What is true?", "Is not reality made up of illusions?", "Do you know who you are?" Pirandello never lets us doubt that he has us in mind as his characters sometimes step out from their roles and speak to us directly. But Pirandello is most successful when he allows his audience the freedom to identify with the plot and situation of the play.

Special credit should go to George Hearn as Henry, whose acting changed as he changed costumes. Ronald Steelman, Yusef Bulos and Jake Dengel were very amusing as Henry's counselors.

Enrico IV will be presented again on Saturday, November 11, and then again on January 6, 12, and 14. It is heartily recommended.

Koinonia and Metaphysics

"Theism and Metaphysics" will be discussed at the next Koinonia meeting, Tuesday, November 14 at 8:00 p.m. in the Campus Center Lounge. Dr. George Thomas, Professor of Religion at Princeton University, will present the opening address, and Dr. Diogenes Allen of the Department of Theology of the Seminary will respond.

Dr. Thomas is the author of Christian Ethics and Moral Philosophy and Religious Philosophies of the West and is currently writing a book on the relationship between metaphysics and theism.

Dr. Allen's article "Christianity's Stake in Metaphysics" in the July 1967 issue of Theology Today is recommended as a brief, clear and perceptive orientation of the issues to be discussed.

Senior Grads Take Over Top Spot

by Tom Crenshaw

The Senior Grads kept their record unblemished by trouncing Hodge 33-6 in one of last week's intramural football games.

After a slow start which found the Senior Grads ahead by only a point, 7-6 at the half, Timberlake and company began to roll.

The Sr. Grads scored first a Timberlake to Pope pass which covered 30 yards. Timberlake passed to Eric Fagans for the extra point to make the score 7-0. Hodge came right back, however, on what proved to be the most exciting play of the season. With the ball on their own two, Hodge quarterback Mike Shaw fired a thirty-yard pass to speedster Vince de Lalla who had gotten behind his man. De Lalla gobbled up the ball and without breaking stride, raced the rest of the way to complete a 98-yard scoring play. The extra point failed, making the score 7-6.

The Sr. Grads broke the game wide open in the second half, however, when Timberlake, receiving excellent pass protection from Walt Goos, began finding the target. He passed to George Pope for the second score. The extra point failed.

On Hodge's first series of downs, Paul Mickey intercepted a Mike Shaw pass to set up the next score. Timberlake passed to Harvey White for the touchdown. The extra point was good, making the score 20-6.

The Sr. Grads wasted no time in scoring their fourth touchdown when Timberlake threw to Rick Tyme for six points. Tyme had himself set up the score with an interception of a Mike Shaw pass. Don McNeill made a brilliant reception of Timberlake's pass for the extra point.

The final score of the game came when Timberlake threw a sideline pass to speedster Paul Hammar who raced thirty yards for the score. The extra point failed, making the final score 33-6.

The Sr. Grad defensive line led by Eric Fagans exerted continual pressure on quarterback Mike Shaw forcing him to throw hurriedly, and off balance much of the game.

The Junior Middlers knocked Brown out of a first place tie by a 7-6 come from behind victory. Trailing 6-0 with only ten seconds to go in the game, Davis Price found Jim Long in the end zone for the game tying score. The pass covered twelve yards. Price then hit Frank Drake for what proved to be the game winning extra point.

Brown opened the scoring in the first half when Bob McArthur lofted a touchdown to his favorite receiver, end Dexter McNamara. On the extra point try McArthur rolled out looking to pass but seeing daylight ahead decided to run the ball in himself. It looked as if McArthur would score but before he could reach the goal line the referee ruled that he had been tagged. The call resulted in a strong protest from Brown who felt that McArthur had not been touched and would have scored, had not the whistle blown.

Alexander broke into the win column with a 12-6 victory over the Choir College.

Alexander opened the scoring after a sustained drive had put them on the Choir College 15. John Mulholland hit Frank Kinney in the end zone for the score. The extra point failed. The Choir College came back to score after a pass interference penalty had given them the ball on the Alexander fifteen. On fourth down Lackey hit Bill Kalish for the score. The extra point failed.

In the second half neither team was able to mount much of an offense. However, with four minutes to play Mulholland picked off a Choir College pass and raced sixty yards to the fifteen. Dave Myler threw the key block on the play. Crenshaw then hit Atkinson on the five and on the next play he connected with end Budge Gere for the score.

Brown Wins in the Last Seconds

By Tom Crenshaw

In an exciting battle of defense Brown defeated Alexander 6-0. The winning touchdown came on the very last play of the game after quarterback Bob McArthur had apparently been trapped in his own backfield. McArthur, finding his receivers well covered, and himself seemingly surrounded by Alexander red shirts, decided to run. After eluding two tacklers, he cut back to the side lines where he picked up a couple of blocks and raced thirty yards for the score.

Throughout the game the Alexander forward wall of Jim Lawton, Jim Trett, Dave Myler and Bob Morrison continually harassed McArthur, spilling him for big losses on numerous occasions.

Alexander, however, plagued by its familiar nemesis (lack of scoring punch) was able to mount but only one serious scoring drive. Taking the opening kickoff, Alex marched fifty yards to the Brown ten before an interception thwarted their drive. From this point on the game resorted to a punting dual between McArthur and Crenshaw.

Friday, Nov. 3, the Princeton Seminary soccer team went down to a 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Princeton Graduate Physics Dept. Playing a team which had been working together for a number of weeks, and bothered by a lack of familiarity with one another's styles, the Seminary was unable to mount any kind of consistent game.

Despite the loss, there were some real glimpses of promise, however.

Ian McIntosh looked especially good for the losers who hope to conclude a much abbreviated schedule with the Hun School.

The Sr. Grads kept their record unblemished with a 20-0 victory over the Jr. Middlers. It was a decisive but yet hard-fought victory for the Sr. Grads who found themselves confronted by a team with a strong pass rush and a good passing game.

On the very first play from scrimmage, Bob Timberlake intercepted a Davis Price pass on the forty. On their first play Timberlake rolled out to his left and found daylight. He cut back and went all the way for the score. A Timberlake to Hammer pass was complete for the extra point.

The Jr. Middlers came back with the kick-off and drove sixty yards to the Sr. Grads' ten before turning the ball over on Timberlake's second interception, this time in the end zone. During the drive Davis Price, behind the good blocking of Wayne Fry and George McElrath, continually hit Frank Drake on short sideline patterns.

The Sr. Grads busted the game wide open in the second half, however, scoring their second touchdown on a Timberlake to Hammer pass after a mix-up in the Jr. Middler defensive secondary had left Hammer all alone. Timberlake threw to Rich Tyne for the extra point.

The Sr. Grads scored their final touchdown with only one second to play. After a penalty had nullified a Timberlake to Harvey White pass on the one-foot line, Timberlake found halfback Bill Grey in the corner of the end zone for the score. The extra point was missed and the final score was 20-0.

Venus Descends

The Princeton University Triangle Club will open its 79th season December 7-9 at McCarter Theatre with "Enter, Venus," a show which promises to be rich in satire and song.

"Enter, Venus" featuring Barry Miles, Milton Lyon and Peter Hamilton, shows what happens when a hillbilly housewife's recipe for hushpuppies allows her to see invisible Venusians and a child movie star turned U.S. Senator.

The Triangle Club, founded in 1892, has been made famous by such artists as F. Scott Fitzgerald, James Stewart, Jose Ferrer, and Joshua Logan.

Stringfellow Speaks as Concerned Critic

William Stringfellow, author, attorney, and lay theologian will speak informally Wednesday, December 6 at 7 p.m. in Alexander Hall lounge.

In his book A Public and Private Faith, Stringfellow charged "As I find it, religion in America is characteristically atheistic or agnostic. Religion has virtually nothing to do with God and has little to do with the practical lives of men in society. Religion seems, mainly, to have to do with religion. The churches —particularly of Protestantism—in the United States are, to a great extent, preoccupied with religion rather than with the Gospel."

Stringfellow has attended two Faith and Order sessions of the World Council of Churches, and was a leader at the 1960 Strasbourg Conference of the World Student Christian Federation. His work in ecumenics has taken him to 29 countries in Europe, Asia, Africa and the Caribbean.

Karl Barth described him on his visit to the United States as "the conscientious and thoughtful New York attorney who caught my attention more than any other person."

Stringfellow invites argument and controversy not for the sake of mere dispute, "but because of conviction that religion is, in principle, not only a very private matter but also a public issue, and because of conviction that the health and eventual maturity of the churches of American Protestantism depend on getting some issues stated openly and discussed widely—by both clergy and laity and by the unchurched public as well."

A graduate of Bates College, and Harvard Law School, Stringfellow has written My People is the Enemy, Dissenter in a Great Society, and Instead of Death.

4 Students Turn in Selective Service Cards; Fourth Faculty Vietnam Discussion, Wednesday

The fourth faculty panel discussion on the Vietnam war will be held Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 7 p.m. in the main lounge of the Campus Center.

Expected to highlight the discussion by members of the Department of Practical Theology is the act of conscience by four Princeton Seminary students who turned in their draft cards, Dec. 4.

Richard Killmer, Thomas Crenshaw, Larry Trettin and James Crawford surrendered their draft cards to Professor Richard Shaull after a public, nonsectarian service of worship in Miller Chapel. Dr. Daniel Migliore, Assistant Professor of Theology, also participated in the evening service.

Dr. Shaull reportedly forwarded the draft cards to the students' respective draft boards with a letter stating that they are no longer complying with the provisions of the Selective Service Act.

The purpose of this act of conscience by the four is to protest inequities in the Selective Service Act, especially the IV-D classification for seminary students and clergymen, and U.S. participation in the war in Vietnam.

Yale Professor Here Monday

Dr. James Gustafson, Professor of Christian Ethics at Yale Divinity School, will speak on "Moral Education: The Development of the Moral Self" at Koinonia Monday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Gustafson is the author of Treasure in Earthen Vessels, a sociological inquiry into the nature and mission of the church. The Seminary community is invited.

Seminarians Stage Part of Scopes Trial Drama

The trial scene from "Inherit the Wind" by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee will be enacted by Seminary students Dec. 7, 8, and 9 at 8:45 p.m. in the Campus Center auditorium.

The play is based on the trial of Thomas Scopes which took place in Dayton, Tenn. in 1925. Scopes was convicted for teaching Charles Darwin's theory of evolution in the public school.

William Jennings Bryan, three times a candidate for United States President, represented the state as prosecuting attorney. Defense attorney was Clarence Darrow. The clash between the two men became one of "the great agnostic vs. the great fundamentalist" according to Karl Light, Visiting Lecturer in Speech and director of the play. "The trial turned out to be a circus—it was held outdoors, it was hot, there were revival meetings."

Light played the role of Burtram Cates, the school teacher, in New York, 1955-56.

The title of the play is taken from Proverbs 11:29, "He that troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind."

"The quote refers to Bryan more than anything else. He won oblivion. It was his last public appearance," Light concluded.

Internship Recruitment Program Begins Monday

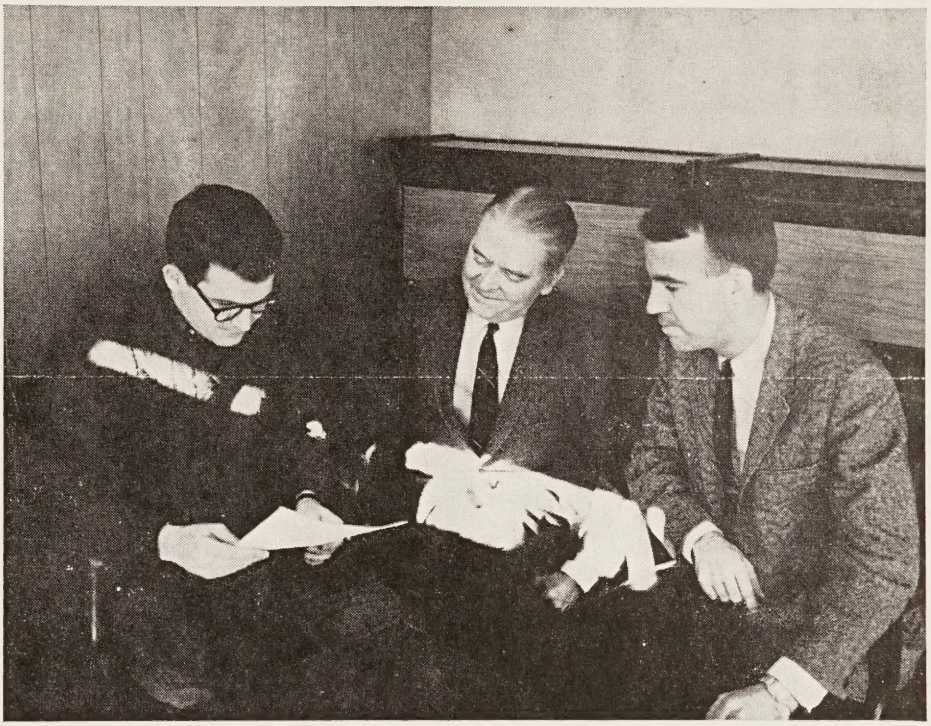
The Office of Field Education will begin recruiting interns for next year at a dinner Monday, Dec. 11, at 6 p.m. in the Campus Center's Small Dining Room.

Field education staff members will explain the internship program and former interns will comment upon their experiences. Students wishing to attend this dinner should sign the list outside the field education office. The cost of the dinner is $1.75 for non-boarders and $.30 for regular boarders.

According to Dr. Arthur M. Adams, Dean of the Seminary and of Field Education, the purpose of the internship year is to place the student in a situation that will offer maximum stimulation to learning. "It is hoped that he will be helped toward a meaningful synthesis of his theological studies and learn to relate them to the Church and the world," Dean Adams said.

Explaining why he decided to become an intern, Stewart Ellis, a former intern at Central Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga. said, "I was uncertain what kind of ministry I would pursue after graduation, and I thought it would add meaning to my selection of courses and studies during my last year of Seminary.

"I feel that my internship was valuable because the church in which I worked has an excellent multiple-staff team ministry which gave me three good supervisors in their respective areas of specialization and responsibility. I also got a broad exposure to many of the 'nitty-gritty' realities of the Church and the city in a congregation which combines a predominantly suburban membership with a downtown location and an urban, inner-city and campus ministry," the Wabash College graduate said.



Stewart Ellis, Dean Arthur M. Adams and Bruce Langford discuss plans for the upcoming dinner for prospective interns. The Field Education Office sponsors the annual fete, which is held to acquaint Seminary students with the many facets of Princeton's internship program.

Bruce Langford, a former intern at the First Presbyterian Church, Fort Wayne, Ind. added, "An internship year gives the student a year to test the applicability of what his academic work is saying. Seventeen or 18 hours of lectures per week plus bull sessions on campus can be most stimulating, and yet the need to test the relevance of what happens outside of the theological cocoon is a pressing one.

"In addition, one learns from experience what is realistic. In other words, the internship teaches one how to accomplish any number of tasks both professionally and meaningfully. Through the tutoring of ministers the intern learns 'how to' be a minister in a juvenile court, a home hospital, retirement home, or at a funeral."

PTS Eleven Trounces Drew Seminary, 40-7

By Tom Crenshaw

In its first and only inter-seminary football game, Princeton Seminary soundly trounced Drew Theological Seminary, 40-7.

Scoring almost at will, Princeton might have rolled up an even bigger score had it not been for the slippery and snow-covered turf which gradually turned into mud as the game progressed.

Drew was previously undefeated, having claimed victories over Union and General in addition to a 21-20 thriller over Yale.

Princeton won the toss of the coin and elected to receive. After a fine runback, Bob Timberlake passed 30 yards to Jim Long. The extra point was missed.

Princeton came right back again and made it 13-0 when Timberlake hit Paul Hammer, the intramural scoring leader, with a 30-yard pass. Timberlake passed to Hammer for the extra point.

Drew finally hit paydirt after a sustained march of 60 yards. The extra point was good, making the score 13-7 at the close of the quarter.

In the second quarter Drew threatened the Princeton goal line, but Jim Long came up with a timely interception in his own end zone. After earning 65 yards on the ground and through the air, Timberlake found speedster Jim Long for his third touchdown pass of the afternoon. Timberlake threw to Long for the extra point.

The second period ended with a fine goal line stand by Drew after George Pope had intercepted a Drew pass on the 30, and returned it to the 10.

Princeton broke the game wide open in the second half. Timberlake pitched to Bob McArthur who then rolled out and pitched back to Timberlake who had sneaked out of the backfield. The play covered 15 yards. Again it was Timberlake to Long for the extra point.

The final score came in the fourth quarter on a Timberlake to Long pass. Long, after making the reception, faked two defenders out of position and raced untouched into the end zone.

In intramural action the Senior-Grads topped Brown, 13-7; the Junior-Middlers shut out Hodge, 20-0; and the Princeton Grads topped Alexander, 6-0.

Dr. Williams to Speak

Dr. Bernard Williams, Knightbridge Professor of Philosophy at Cambridge University, will speak, Jan. 2, on "The Problem of Vanishing Religious Content in Secular Christianity."

The public lecture will be held in Stevenson Lounge in the Campus Center. Professor Williams is coming to the United States to deliver a major address on "The Philosophy of Belief" at the International Philosophy Conference in January.

Noted for his simplicity and clarity of style, Williams is a linguistic analyst who frequently deals with theological topics. He recently published an essay on "Tertullian's Paradox" in New Essays in Philosophical Theology. His lecture here will focus on issues raised by his study of Paul Van Buren's works, particularly The Secular Meaning of the Gospel.

SC Studies Remodeling Of Stuart Hall Lounge

The Faith and Life Committee is testing reaction to proposed remodeling of the lounge in Stuart Hall basement.

According to Richard Nathan, the lounge could be converted to have a coffee house atmosphere with comfortable furniture, soft lighting, background music, contemporary art, and decorated walls and windows.

Interested students are requested to register their opinions and willingness to help in the boxes in the Campus Center and Stuart Hall.

Junior to Give Organ Recital

Richard Moore, a Junior at Princeton Seminary, will give an organ recital with selections from Bach, Widor, Wright, Brahms, Daquin, and Clerambault, Thursday, Jan. 4, at 1:35 p.m. in Miller Chapel.

Moore is organist and choir director of New Vernon Presbyterian Church, New Vernon, N.J. He studied organ with James Boeringer at Susquehanna University, Penna., where he was an English major.
